

```
home.jsp
<form:form method ="POST" modelAttribute="emp"> @Data
  public class Employee {
                                                         private Integer eno;
       ENO
                                                         private String ename="sachin"; <form:input path='eno' />
                                                         private String edesg;
       private Double salary;
       ENAME
                                                    }
           <form:input path='ename' />
       eno= EDESG
                                                                                                           ename=sachin
                                                     @GetMapping("/register") public String showForm(@ModelAttribute("emp") Employee employee) { <form:input path='edesg' />
                                                                                                           edesg=
                                                         return "home";
       salary
       SALARY
                                                     @PostMapping("/register") <form:input path='salary' />
                                                    public String registerEmployee(Map<String, Object> model, @ModelAttribute("emp") Employee employee) {
       System.out.println("EmployeeController.registerEmployee()"); System.out.println(employee);
           <input type='submit' value='register'>
                                                         model.put("employee", employee);
       return "result";
  Model(I)
                                                    }
                                                                                                       eno : 7
</form:form>
                      ename=sachin
                                                                           employee
                                                                                                       ename: dhoni
                      edesg=
                                                                                                       edesg: keepr
                      salary=
                                                                                                       salary: 45000.
                                                                                               emp ENO
                                                             ENO ✓
   ENAME sachin dhoni
                                                                  ${employee.eno}
   EDESG kepper
                                                             SALARY 45000
                                                             ENAME
                                                                  ${employee.ename}
                                                             EDESG
                                                                  ${employee.edesg}
                                                             SALARY
                                                                  ${employee.salary}
```

```
http://localhost:9999/DataBindingApp/data?no=10&name=sachin @GetMapping("/data")
public String bindData(Map<String, Object> model, @RequestParam("no") Integer sno, @RequestParam("name") String sname) {
    System.out.println("DataBindingController.bindData()");
    System.out.println("SNO is :: "+sno);
    System.out.println("SNAME is :: "+sname);
    return "show_data";
                           http://localhost:9999/DataBindingApp/data1?sno=10&sname=sachin @GetMapping("/data1")
public String bindData1(Map<String, Object> model, @RequestParam Integer sno,@RequestParam String sname) {
    System.out.println("DataBindingController.bindData1()");
                                                                   SNO :: ${param.sno}
    System.out.println("SNO is :: "+sno);
                                                                   SNAME :: ${param.sname}
    System.out.println("SNAME is :: "+sname);
    return "show_data";
```